The Umbria and La Normandie, of the French line, started from this port together about 11 o'clock Saturday morning. The Umbria forged ahead rapidly. At the Swash channel she had to take a roundabout course, drawing too much water to safely go through the channel. La Normandie, being lighter, went through all right. Mrs. Wason has engaged Howe & Hummel to aid her in finding her baby, and this morning Mr. Hummel told an Evening World reporter that he expected to go before the Grand Jury and have George Ernest Wason, the lost child's father, and his mother indicted for abduction.

George Wason is the son of the late Frank Wason, the wealthy car builder, of Springfield, Mass. A fortune of $250,000 was left in trust for him, and the income amounts to about $400 a month. He secretly married Miss Flonelle Presby, daughter of Mr. W. A. Presby, the senior pariner in a large commission house at 20 White street, whom he met in Catakill Mountains.

Miss Presby was then only fourteen years old at the time.

Alies Freshy was then only fourteen years old at the time.

They lived happily at 400 West Twenty-third street until recently, when the young man became pealous of his wife and instituted an action for divorce against her.

About a week ago Mrs. Wason went to see her prents, who live at 339 West Twenty-third street, from where the child was stoleu.

Young Wason's mother was staying at the Hotel Brunswick last week, and it was thought that she and her son had caused the child to be sent away.

and her son had caused the child to be sent away.

Lawyer Abe Hummel accordingly procured from Judge Lawrence a writ of habeas corpus commanding Mrs. Wason, sr., and her son to produce Cecil in the Supreme Court, Chambers, to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

But when the deputies tried to serve the writ they could not find the proper persons, and up to this morning had been had.

Mrs. Wason, sr., left the Hotel Brunswick Saturday night and her son has disappeared from his home, 400 West Twenty-third street.

Hearting in the habeas corpus proceedings was to-day postponed until Wednesday morning to give time to locate Mrs. Wason, sr., and her son, George.

George.

Lawyer Hummel said this morning: "Police Capt Gunner told me that Mrs. Wason, sr., said that the child Cecil has been taken out of the jurisdiction of this court.
"We cannot find either her or her son and I feel consident that they have left the State.
"As regards the divorce proceedings, we deny Mr. Wason's charges and shall file a cross petition praying for a divorce. The child has been abducted without a doubt."

It has been definitely settled that Gen. John Cochrane, Chairman of the Tammany Hall General tee, is to fill the vacancy caused by the death of President George H. Forster, of the Board

This determination was arrived at at a consulta tion held yesterday afternoon between Fire Com-missioner Croker, Congressman W. Bourke Cockran, Gen. Cochrane and other Tammany

These gentlemen agreed that the Board of Aldermen could fill the vacancy, and proceeded to discuss the question of who should be the Tammany candidate.

CAN'T OVERRIDE GOV. HILL.

Fear has been expressed by some people who fought hard for Gov. Hill that the Republicans would have sufficient majority in the Legislature to override the Governor's veto. Eighty-six votes are required to do this, and the returns show the are required to do this, and the returns show the election of but seventy-nine Republicans. The alarmists have spread the story that the County Democracy members of this city will unite with the Republicans in opposing the Governor. The absurdity of this proposition is apparent when it is known that the Counties only elected two Assemblymen in this city, Timothy D. ROANOKE'S RESERVOIR LEFT HIGH AND DRY IN FIVE MINUTES.

in Engineer Says the Million and a Half Gallons Sank Into a Cavern Beneath, and That the Damage is $25,000-Nothing but a Yawning Abyas is Left in the Basin

ROANORE, Va., Nov. 12.—The loss on the reserour from which the bottom mysteriously sank sturday night is $25, 000.

There were 1,500,000 gallons of water in the Home Secretary Matthews Also Likely to

There were 1,500,000 gallons of water in the reservoir Saturday evening. Now there is nothing but a yawning abyss to be seen. The hole in the bottom of the basin is about fifteen feet in diameter and there are large cracks in the earth extending in every direction.

The water disappeared within five minutes.

The Hoanoke Water-Works Company's reservoir is located on Mill Mountain, about two miles south of the city. The two immense basins were only completed in the latter part of the past Summer at a cost of 200,000.

They are immense holes dug out in the mountain side, large enough to hold 1,500,000 gallons of water each.

They were tamped with white clay and lined with brick laid with coment, after which a heavy coat of the best cement that could be procured was worked over the inside of the brick wall.

The work was superintended by Howard Murphy, of Philadelphia, a hydraulic enfuser of long and successful experience.

No one would have ever thought there was any chance of the bottom failing out of such a structure built in the bowels of the earth.

Ween The Evenning World representative saw vice-Fresident Trout this morning he said there would be no chance to repair the reservoir, but stated that the water supply would not be affected by the unnatural occurrence, as the north basin would be equal to the demand at present.

When asked what he thought was the cause, he said it was evidently due to caverus in that section.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN ARRIVES

HE CAME ON THE AURANIA AND ELUDED THE REPORTERS.

He Missed His Train to Washington, However, and Was Cornered in the Brevoort House-When the Steamer Touched Land Below the Cunard Pier He Quietly Dropped Off and Stole Silently Away.

By vote of half a score of reporters Joseph Chamberlain, Member of Parliament and groom-elect of Miss Mary Endicott, is a "Jim dandy." It was to be expected that if he chose he could get away from England without the knowledge of the English reporters, but the New York "sleuth-hounds of the press" hardly calculated on being tuped by the ' 'great Commoner."

He did it though, and completely.

The Aurania arrived down the bay in the misty orning, bearing the brainy Briton. She was boarded before breakfast by several reporters, and when Sir Joseph's eye gave its first peep this morning the seribes were ready with question book, pad and pencil.

But the Queen's subject was not communicative, He throat his nightcapped head through an opening between the curtains and said so. He said it sortly, courteously, but with awful firmness. He had no opinions to express, and asked that his friends, the newspaper men, consider his decision, and would they please go away?

The big Cunarder steamed up the bay, and at a few minutes before 10 o'clock she was snabbing her way slong between the Cunard pler, Norta River, and the next dock below it.

The tide was going out swiftly, but that did not seem to account for the lact that the big steamer snubbed broadside against pler 39, the next below the Cunard dock.

She did though, buffers softening the snub. At that moment a very extraordinary beating man in a very critically English cape coat and a soft hat elambered over the rail with a gripmack—perliaps a Gladsices bag would be more English—in his hand. He clambered down the ladder and walked leturely up the dock to West street and then disappeared, mbody seemed to know where.

A dozen reporters walted on the Cunard pler for the disembarkation of the farrous English salesman, but he failed to materialize, and the awful suspicion arose that Mr. Chamberiain, M. P., had played them a trick.

Inquiry brought out that the ordinary man in the ordinary coat was no other than the M. P., and that he had left orders that his luggage be forwarded to Washington.

At the Brevoort House, where Sir Joseph usually puts up, his arrival was not anticipated, and, putling this and that together, the newspaper men concluded that he had hurried from the dock over to Jersey City and taken the 10 o'clock tain on the Pennsylvania road for Washington.

At about ten minutes before 18 o'clock tain on the Pennsylvania road for women.

It was the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, M.

and hurried into the hostelry. He did not register, and was assigned to room 29, overlooking Fifth avenue.

It was the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, M. P. For all the world like an ordinary traveller, he had missed the train.

An Evenino World reporter sent up his card and it was returned with this message written on the back in the small, plain hand of the Commonert.

"Mr. Chamberlain has come to America exclusively on his private affairs, and does not intend to express any opinions whatever on political or public questions during his stay, which will not be long."

Mr. Chamberlain had lunch and took the 2 o'clock train for Washington. There were no callers at the Brevoort.

Joseph Chamberlain's marriage to Miss Mary Endicott, daughter of the Secretary of War, P now announced by Mamma Endicott, and it occur at Washington before a few friends rottives, including the President and Mrs. COT Thursday.

A brief honeymoon will oe spent at fi, house in Salem, Mass., and in seeing the and then the daughter of one of the most ancient families of Puritan New England will go to England to become the mistress of the house of one of the chief statesmen of the realm.

When Mr. Chamberlain was here last winter as a Commissioner of the Queen in the matter of the Fisheries treaty he made a fine impression upon the men and charmed the laddes of Washington. He captivated Miss Endicott, and it was a first-shing excursion for him.

It assemed to be a real love affair from the start, though Mr.: Chamberlain has loved and lost two wives already.

He is lifty-two years oid, though he does not appear to be more than forty. He is a streaty.

R seemed to be a real love affair from the start, though Mr.:Chamberlain has loved and lost two wives already.

He is fifty-two years old, though he does not appear to be more than forty. He is a retired millionaire manhfacturer, was a Radical in English potities and was elected to Parliament as such. But as a Unionist he is now acting with the Tories.

He has achieved a first rate reputation as a politician, and was regarded as the ablest member of the Gladotone Cablest of 1890.

Miss Endicott bosats an older family than his Her ancestors came over on the Maydower, and her relatives include everybody work memiconing about Salem.

She is Secretary Endicott's only daughter. She is a beauty of the English type, with a plak and white complexion, large, full blue eyes, a supple, graceful figure and reserved manner.

Mr. Chamberlain left England Sunday, Nov. & secretary final left the National election here. He persuaded the Cunard people that he was on a secret Governmental mission, and was bundled aboard the Aurania incognito.

During the voyage which ended to-day he was very reticent, and nobody succeeded in getting him to talk about his approaching nuptials.

He has a seen and daughter nearty as old as Miss Endicott, and it is said that the latter, who has presided over his Hirmingham homes for three years, does not look upon the coming wedding with much pleasure, as she had calculated on presidency of the first wife, and she died in 1877. The second wife was Florence Kendrick, a could not the first wife, and she died in 1875, grieving her husband very much.
